

Abstract

The invention is directed to degradation products of azithromycin, methods for the preparation and identification of the degradation products which may be produced during 5 storage and/or synthesis of azithromycin.